The Open Science Publishing Flood and Collaborative Authoring

Simon Worthington <sup>Chair</sup>	German National Library of Science and Technology, TIB Hannover, Germany
Daniel Speicher	Bonn-Aachen Int. Center for Information Technology, University of Bonn, Germany
Denis Roio (Jaromil)	Dyne.org Foundation, Netherlands
Thomas Fricke	Endocode AG, Germany
Ludwig Hülk	Reiner Lemoine Institut gGmbH, Germany

Currently there is a deluge of 'off-piste' collaborative authoring going on in Open Science, the adoption of: software versioning systems like GitHub for writing; simulations and code in platforms like Jupyter; or in 'real time' web authoring 'operational transformation algorithm' based software like Etherpad. Yes the 'digital plumbing' of this publishing flood is just not in place. How do we ID these documents, reuse them for example. These questions have been asked and answered before, but are outside the fast moving, forward looking tech world. As an example, Ted Nelson coined the term 'transclusion' (Nelson 1987) back in the '80s. Transclusion is a step on from the 'hyperlink', another Nelson term, where not just the link of a target is included in a document but instead the whole content (AKA live linked embedding). Currently if you want to link and include another document fragment in your document with persistence, it's unlikely to work. The panelists will explore how this exciting field can better support research.

MODERATOR – PLATO L. SMITH, UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA; GEORGE A. SMATHERS LIBRARIES, UNITED STATES

14:00  SESSION 3 – OPEN RESOURCES FOR EDUCATION IN LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SCIENCE

- Open Access in the Academy: Developing a Library Program for Campus Engagement
Daniel C. Mack; University of Maryland, United States
- Open Educational Resources and Library & Information Science: towards a common framework for methodological approaches and technical solutions
Roberto Puccinelli, Lisa Reggiani, Massimiliano Saccone, and Luciana Trufelli, National Research Council, Italy
- Strategies for Teaching and Learning about Grey Literature
A Multimedia Presentation delivered by GreyNet's Education and Training (E&T) Committee
Marcus Vaska, Alberta Health Services, Knowledge Resource Service (AHS-KRS), Canada
David Baxter and Margo Hilbrecht, Gambling Research Exchange Ontario, Canada
Sarah Bonato, Centre for Addiction and Mental Health, Canada
Charles Scott Dorris, Georgetown University Medical Center; Dahlgren Memorial Library, United States
